EDANA is pleased to announce that once again the Nonwovens Innovation Academy (NIA), held from 25th - 26th October at STFI – Sächsisches Textil Forschungs Institut in Chemnitz, Germany, delivered on its promise to help connect the industry and the nonwovens centres of excellence, from Europe to the Middle East, India and North America.

Over 100 R&D and innovation managers, product developers, researchers and students, all part of the broader nonwovens community, gathered to share knowledge and seek inspiration to contribute to the effort of the nonwovens industry in creating new solutions and improving current applications.
